At Thursday night's meet-ing, Coastal's Executive Director Kathryn Shanks and others said the decision to close the clinic here was "more than just painful."

"The center faced very troublesome choices in ensuring that the greatest number of residents in need of primary health care could be served with shrinking resources and increasing costs," Shanks said.

She explained that in 1990, the Center served 16,172 patients in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties, and by

Three qualify for Pass race

BY ED LEPOMA

It's official. There are three candidates running for the vacated office of Mayor in Pass Christian in the special Oct. 3 election.

The three who qualified after getting signatures of at least 50 registered voters are: Ward 2 Alderman Margaret Jean Kalif; Joseph Kelly, a local attorney; and Billy McDonald, a former three-term Hancock County Supervisor.

Campaign signs began popping up all over town for the three candidates shortly after Mayor Ted Lawyer resigned his office Aug. 30, citing failing health.

But, City Clerk Vikki Goff needed to check the signatures. on each of their petitions before declaring them as eligible can-

Goff said this week all three had returned their petitions and she had certified the signatures of enough qualified voters on each of their petitions to declare each eligible to run in the election.

All three mayoral candidates were invited Saturday to appear at a political forum hosted by the Pass Christian Yacht Club.

And, next Wednesday night at 7 p.m., the Pass Chamber of Commerce has scheduled a by absentee ballot at City Hall

Mutual funds: ask right questions

The impressive returns many mutual funds have achieved this year and the Dow's current strength make an attractive combination for those who are considering mutual funds. But whether you're just shopping around for or you already own mutual funds, it still helps to know the right questions to ask.

For example, some newly formed mutual funds may pique your curiosity, but you may want to know more about the fund's development. Or maybe if another fund company acquires your fund — or the fund family to which it belongs —you may want to know how to find out your fund's future status. Whatever the reason, you may want to ask the following questions:

* What about the fund's portfolio manager? Check the fund manager's track record to see how the fund has performed under his or her management.

Though past performance cannot guarantee future results, review quarterly data as well as annual results to see if the fund has performed well. If so, has the performance been consistent or sporadic? Should a new company acquire your fund, find out immediately if it 'plans to retain the current fund manager or bring in a new one. You may also want to know how long the operational personnel have worked with your fund.

* What types of charges will my fund include? Compare your fund's sales charges and fees to funds with similar objectives. The sales charges generally apply to the purchase or sale of fund shares, while the fees cover annual operational costs and marketing expenses.

Also closely compare expense ratios, which include not only the previously mentioned costs, but also the management fees. And whether your fund belongs to a "family" or a new company acquires it, ask about possible cost changes as well as any "hidden" or additional charges for switching from one fund to

* Will I receive good customer service? Hopefully, your mutual fund provides high-quality customer service, also known as investor relations. Because of their size and resources, larger fund companies may have better services in place, such as more detailed account statements, more accurate record keeping and faster response to customer inquiries. Ask for samples of account materials to see how much information they give and how easy they are to understand.

Will I have opportunities to invest in other types of funds? If your mutual fund belongs to a fund family, some opportunities may arise because the family may offer a larger and more diverse array of funds. If you were thinking about investing in other types of funds, a fund family or fund company merger may give you that opportunity without having to spread out your money among several different investment companies.

A mutual fund can provide you diversity both in its portfolio and in its opportunities. Remember to carefully read a fund's prospectus, which provides more complete information about the charges, expenses and associated risks, before you invest or send money. And consult a professional investment broker, who can ask or answer these questions for you, as well as help you know if this mutual fund truly suits your needs.

Managed Care Network

Officials from eight Mississippi hospitals, including Hancock Medical Center, announced the formation of Mississippi Health Connection. a collaborative network established to provide employers with healthcare cost savings through a managed care system offering broad geographic coverage, comprehensive services and access to nearly 1,600 physicians and 41 community hospitals statewide.

On June 30, Mississippi Health Connection was selected to serve as a Statewide Network Option offered by the State of Mississippi to provide health-care services to state employees, teachers, retirees and their families. Nearly 117,000 employees statewide will make their selection of benefit plan options and providers in October by enrolling in one of the various plans offered by the state.

The vision of Mississippi Health Connection is to serve as the premier statewide managed care network offering local accessibility," said Dale Bankston, MHC president.

"By working together with regional managed care organizations and community hospitals, Mississippi Health Conneciton will assure that the state and other large employers and employees realize cost savings benefits while not having to give up the advantages of selecting and using local community healthcare providers."

Only one in 12 (8%) of those answering the survey stated they were less than satisfied with their job; leaving just four percent dissatisfied and one percent without an opinion. This according to a nationwide survey conducted for accountants on call by the Gallup Organization.

This new survey on job satisfaction, which was first conducted for aoc in 1988, is part of accountants on call's ongoing "Profiles of the American Worker" series which summarizes the opinions, attitudes and behavior of employed Americans concerning workplace

For the survey, full- and parttime workers were 18 years of age or older asked: "All things considered, how satisfied are you with your job? Very Satisfied, somewhat satisfied, not too satisfied or not at all

Job Satisfaction — The Boomers Have It

While little difference was found between the sexes regarding job satisfaction, age, income and education played a major role in how people feel about their jobs. Adults 50 and older are more likely than adults under 30 to say they are very satisfied with their jobs (68% vs. 38%).

The school board members authorized their attorney, Steve Benvenutti, to write the board of supervisors and ask them to check into the allegations of improper items being dumped at Standard. The board further directed Benvenutti to ask for a reply from the supervisors by October 2, and to send copies of the letter to the Hancock County Solid Waste District, the Department of Environmental Quality and the Environmental Protection Benvenutti said he would send the letter, but would refrain from making direct mention of the Louisiana garbage until he had reviewed the school district's lease with the supervisors and made certain whether or not the lease prohibited the dumping of out-ofstate garbage.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

What Jamie Whitten's halfcentury in the House of Representatives did for the state of Mississippi is incalculable, because it is beyond comparison to any other person who has represented this state or almost any state in the Congress of the United States.

Certainly Whitten gave this relatively small state in the whole scheme of things, far greater influence — you can call it clout — than it had reason to expect. He made the strongest case for longevity as opposed to the current demand for term

In his incredible 53-year service in the U.S. House, Whitten wisely concentrated on the area where the real power lies in Congress, the power of the purse. He long ago staked out a seat on Appropriations, working his way up to the chairmanship in 1980. But for many years before that, he headed the agriculture subcommittee of

Appropriations, the spot that earned him the sobriquet as "the permanent Secretary of Agriculture."

It was true that Whitten held the purse strings for farm programs as well as a broad spectrum of other programs that were tucked under his wing and the huge agricultural industry of this country knew it. His first concern always was to see that the farm interests of Mississippi were well-served.

Whitten, said his onetime Mississippi colleague, former Congressman David Bowen, "could digest an appropriation bill faster than anyone" in.

His legendary reading of the fine print in an appropriation bill is what rescued the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway from the public works graveyard in 1967. He also saved it a couple more times until the $2.5 billion waterway was completed in 1985.

The Hancock County Historical Society plans on once again doing a Cedar Rest Cemetery Tour on Halloween, according to Pat Cucullu, tour chairman.

This will be the third tour of the historical cemetery in Bay St. Louis sponsored by the Historical Society and last year the number to attend was over 500 people. There was a dozen "actors" portraying their ancestors and it was a very interesting evening. Cucullu says their will be a donation of a $1 each for

We will be telling you more about the Cedar Rest Cemetery Halowween Tour in the weeks to come.

One of our readers visited the office on Thursday and inquired about the blue markers on the streets of Bay St. Louis.

I knew the purpose of the blue markers, but wanted to really make sure, so I called Bay Fire Chief Gary Maurice to be for certain. The markers are for the fire hydrants throught Bay St. Louis.

The blue markers are used in many cities and make it easy for firefighters responding to a fire to pin point a firehydrant.

Chief Maurice said Bay St. Louis had used florescent paint for the top of the hydrants for many years. The cost of the paint has increased and did not last very long because of the area's dampness. I also think the blue markers appear to do a much better job then the paint did.

I know the importance of finding a hydrant, as I can recall as a volunteer firefighter in the late 1950's when helping fight a residence fire on Coleman Avenue and no one there knew a hydrant was a couple hundreed feet from the fire.

Water had to be hauled from across the tracks for the

Those were the days of the beginning of the Waveland Volunteer Fire Department.

Whitten did more for state than any other Congressman

Whitten's reputation was the mumbler" when he was handling amendments to complicated appropriation bills, was actually strategy and was done intentionally, says Bowen. "His speaking style may have seemed obfuscating," says Bowen, "but he was a very bright man.'

Perhaps he was not outwardly articulate as an orator in comparison to some of his colleagues, but Whitten got the job

One important thing in light of what has recently come out of the Bob Packwood diaries about the inordinate influence of Washington lobbyists, is that Whitten, with all his power in spending, never had much time for lobbyists.

The career of Jamie Whitten is a remarkable story of a smalltown Mississippian who started out in Congress as a New Dealer with Franklin Roosevelt a halfcentury ago. Then he became a Dixiecrat in the 1950s when the Citizens' Council and Ross Barnett were in their heyday. In fact, he was one of the leaders in the anti-civil rights Southern Manifesto in Congress,

Back in those days he hardly let it be known back in Mississippi that he was a member of the Democratic Party. But by the late 1960s, Whitten began his transformation to a loyal team player for Democratic programs and eventually became a key cog in pushing lib-eral programs of the Democratic leadership.

While most political figures become more conservative as they grow older, Whitten on the other hand, grew more liberal, or as some close observers believe, he returned to his New Deal populist roots.

Yes, Jamie Whitten could be said to have been a pragmatic politician. However, he used the political system not for his own glory, but in a very real sense for his own state. Essentially,

1 Who is really to blame for county's animal situation?

Letter to the editor Ed Lepoma's front page coverage on Hancock County's animal situation was much appreciated and well written. Ed told who was not to blame for the holocaust that goes on weekly at the animal shelter. I will tell you who is to blame.

Each person who permits their dog or cat to breed freely or mistakenly allow their own household pet to have babies for whatever reason - is at fault.

When I hear a person say that their dog is pregnant but it's alright because they have people waiting to take the puppies, my heart sinks. The chances of their puppies or kittens living a decent well cared for life until they die of old age is almost nil. Animals pass from hand to hand.

There are people who have their purebred dogs breed litter after litter of pups to make a few dollars - will sell them to anyone for a buck. Purebreds end up at the Waveland shelter all the time and the same deadly needle pieces their veins just the same as the most pathetic

The enemy every dog or cat faces is public apathy. The Board of Supervisors of Hancock County could have lessened this situation long ago but they have been the most apathetic of all.

should immediately begin to work with the Waveland Shelter people to build a low cost spay-neuter clinic. In some responsible areas of the country owners must ask for and receive a permit to breed their animals. This should be done here and now in Hancock County. Fines should be sizeable for anyone who fails to get a permit. Birth control is still the only human way to control the animal population.

When the new supervisors come into office they should act swiftly, build a big new shelter, enact new laws to control breeding and build and staff a new low cost spay-neuter clinic. Spay/neuter program cheaper for the county in the long run

Dear Editor:

In reference to the article on the Waveland Animal Shelter in your paper on Sunday, Sept. 17, 1995: I believe that Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and expense of having pets neutered.

Maybe we could get the local veterinarians to set up a program to neuter pets on a contract basis. I know that some of the veterinarians might feel that this is taking away business, but it is business that they are not now getting. Maybe this would encourage pet owners to take better care of their pets.

There are many people who buy or get a cuddly kitten or pup, but never give it the shots required and never have it neutered or spayed. If it is a female and has its first litter, they get rid of the pet and the litter.

Sometimes they take the pet and litter to the shelter, but more often they take them out in the timber or along a road somewhere and dump them. My wife and I have found 12 such female pets with litters here in our area during the past year.

Other people just take the kittens or the pups out in the woods or along the street away from their home and dump them. I have found a number of kittens less than two months old that have been dumped in shopping centers. The poor little things cannot survive on their own, and starving is a horrible death.

I believe that if the county would establish a program to have pets neutered that it would be cheaper in the long run than it is to maintain a large shelter and to be in the business of putting to death unwanted pets. To put an unwanted animal to death is expensive and needless.

It is better not to be born than to die in an animal shelter or to starve to death.

Sincerely, Richard Hopkins Diamondhead

I am a volunteer for Hancock County. I happen to have a situation whereby I can spend an hour every two weeks picking up litter in my neighborhood.

I do this with pride and do not want any recognition, but would like to encourage the county administration and the Chamber of Commerce to keep plugging the LITTER CAMPAIGN

I feel that if Hancock County doesn't keep its end up, that is, cutting the gutters, then it is discouraging to those who try so hard to clean up. It contributes to littering. In the Pearlington area, we haven't had the grass cut since last spring. I know there are problems, as with all government financed facilities, and I admit that I don't know the hardships encountered. I only wish to emphasize that there are priorities and some, like myself, think that we should prioritize the visual things.

If the grass is cut, citizens get a much better feeling about the county; they don't tend to litter as much; they have a better sense of organization and less stress; they become proud of their environment; it stimulates cleanliness and promotes respect for the rules of society. This may sound far-fetched, but I feel that these things are very important.

I overheard a couple of dudes the other night who were complaining about their jobs while laboring over a couple of large mugs of beer. Me being a curious type (which some might interpret as being nosy), I leaned in for a better listen. So one dude turns to his buddy and says, "I've been doing some thinking lately, and I've decided that I'm gonna quit my job, go on unemployment and apply for food stamps."

"Yeah, how come?" asked the other dude.

I'm not kidding you folks, the dude replied, "Because my job isn't fun anymore."

Hancock uses ground attack in win over Rocks

The Hancock High Hawks piled up over 200 rushing yards, and forced St. Stantislaus to the air to post a 23-12 victory over. the Rock-a-chaws Friday night at Stanislaus.

The Hawks first score came just over a minute into the game when SSC muffed a short punt. and Hancock took possession at the St. Stantislaus 23. Two plays later, Darrell Williams ran 20 yards around left into the end zone. The point after failed, and the Hawks led 6-0 with 8:57 to go in the first quarter.

The Rock-a-chaws took the ensuing kickoff at the 22, but after three short rushing attempts were forced to kick. and senior quarterback Correy Gex soon realized he would have to put the ball in the air to break the game open.

Gex engineered a 94-yard drive early in the second quarter, completing passes of 22, 44 and 30 yards. The 30-yard touchdown pass, first caught; then almost fumbled by Derrick Pearl River's defense dominated Bay High in a 26-3 defeat of the Tigers in Bay High's District 7'4-A opener at Pearl River. Bay High fell to 1-3 overall, with all three losses coming against ranked teams.

I think the kids know they are getting better," Bay High coach Walt Esslinger said. They know they have been playing good teams but have never quit and I don't expect them to.

Pearl River honored its undefeated 1991 team during pregame ceremonies, then fans watched as the Blue Devils ran their record to 5-0.

Pearl River held the Tigers to 44 total yards, minus 27 in the second half. Bay High standout running back Wali Shabazz gained only four yards on 12 carries. Quarterback Jonathan Favre was three of 15 for 65 yards and one interception. Fifty-seven of those yards came on a screen pass to Shabazz, which helped set up the Tigers' only points.

"I was worried that we would have problems moving the ball," Esslinger said. "Pearl River's defense is probably as good as anybody around,

We did do some thing well in

Not many came in the first half, though, when the Blue Devils' jumped out to a 20-3 lead. Bay High ran only 18 first half plays, and six of those went for minus yards.

Favre was sacked four times in the first half for minus 25 yards, and five for the game for minus 30 yards.

We tried to slow (Pearl River) down," Esslinger said. "They iust executed better than we

We're just a little off with our passing game," he added. "When we have protection, we are not throwing the ball well or it's just inches from a receiver's

"It's frustrating but I think we're real close to being a good passing team.'

Bay High's defense was roughed up for 166 yards in the first half, 159 on the ground. However, the Tigers defense gave up only two touchdowns in a half when 22 of Pearl River's 31 plays were run on the Bay

High side of the field.

The Tigers held PRC to 28 total yards in the second half and were nicked for only one score, despite Blue Devil drives that began on the Bay High 49, 11, 38, 14 and 43.

Blue Devil quarterback Ty Trahan completed only 2 of 13 attempts for eight yards.

"We played as good as pass defense as we have played in the last two years," Esslinger said. "I was real pleased, especially in the secondary. They all did a great job."

Trahan was sacked four times totaling 20 yards, and constantly threw under pressure.

"I was pleasantly surprised with our front five," Esslinger

Danielle Jefferson led the Blue Devils with 66 yards on 10 carries, and one touchdown. It was Jefferson's 27-yard run on the second play of a 34-yard drive that gave Pearl River a 6-0 lead with 4:04 left in the first half.

The Blue Devils had driven inside the Tiger 10 on their first possession but came away with no points. However, PRC's defense set the tone early, as Bay High lost 14 yards on its first three plays, forcing Shab azz to punt from his own end

After Jefferson's score, Bay High answered with Shabazz's 30-yard field that halved the Blue Devil lead as time ran out in the first quarter. The key play was the 57-yard, Fayre to Shabazz screen pass that carried to the Pearl River nine.

Esslinger gambled on the Tigers' next possession when he had Shabazz attempt a fake punt on a fourth and 10 from the Bay High 23. Shabazz was stopped three yards short of a first down but the Tiger defense turned Pearl River away.

We had to take some chances," Esslinger said.

The Blue Devils then stunned Bay High with 14 points in the last 2:22 of the first half. Desmond Robinson recovered a fake punt in the end zone with 2:22 remaining and Trahan threw a two-point conversion pass to Damon Walker that gave the Devils a 14-3 lead.

With just eight seconds remaining, Robert Shoemake capped a seven-play, 47-yard drive with a nine-yard scoring run that gave Pearl River a 20-3 lead, a drive aided by a pass interference penalty.

Pass Christian fought every inch of the way, but St. Martin prevailed in a 30-0 rout of the Pirates Friday night at Pass

The inexperienced Pirates allowed three St. Martin touchdowns in the first half, but came back strong in the second half, holding the visiting Jackets to one touchdown and a field goal.

St. Martin dominated the game on both offense and defense, netting 272 yds rushing to Pass High's 89 yards.

In the air, it was again the Jackets, who netted 64 yards on three completions out of 13 attempts. The Pirates netted 16 yards on two completions out of 11 attempts; two passes were intercepted by the 'Jackets.'

Pirate head coach Joseph Brown commented, "We didn't tackle well in the first-half, although the guys did better in a the second quarter was also

"When we can get us a free safety, and take some of the load off Raynoid, that will help. "We're just going to have to hang tough, lick our wounds, and try to get a district win next week against Perry Central." The Yellow Jackets chalked up their first score five minutes into the game on an 18-yard run

by Aaron Tapper. Brad Mala-garie's kick made it 7-0. St. Martin scored again four minutes later, when Andrew Caprari pushed in from the twoyard line. Malagarie's PAT made it 14-0 with 2:46 left in the first quarter.

Roheem Moore completed an eight-yard run to give the 'Jackets their third score as the first. quarter ended. Malagarie's foot fought its target yet again, and it was 21-0.

The Pirate defense prevented St. Martin from scoring again in the first half, but didn't stop another run by Moore early in the third quarter. Moore zigzagged in from the Pirate 29-yard line to make it 27-0 with 9:33 to go in the quarter. The two teams swapped possession until the three-minute mark, when the Jackets took over on a punt reception. They drove to the 16-yard line, where the Pirate defense halted them.

The Pirates are now 0-5, 0-1. They travel to Perry Central Friday for their second District nosed as mildly retarted, and drew a monthly social security check.The young couple married in 1989 and settled in Bayeide Park.

Ronnie was a construction worker and painter by trade. He got injured on a job, but worked parttime while awaiting disability.

Ronnie Jr., was born in November of 1990, and Shelley in December of 1992.

Bass said the young family was struggling, but making ends meet until June of 1994.

"Lori had a mole on her left leg, and went to doctor to have it removed. The mole was malignant. A subsequent skin graft showed the cancer had spread to the upper part of her left leg, above her knee," Bass said."

Soon after the cancer was discovered, Stephens went to Gulfport Memorial Hospital, where doctors operated, and said they hoped they had gotten it all.

Months passed, and Lori went to the local health department for a routine checkup. She was told she was a few months pregnant, and advised to go for more testing at University Hospital in Jackson.

"The doctors there told Lori she was pregnant, and that the pregnancy would speed up growth of any cancer cells that might still be present. They wanted her to terminate the pregnancy," Bass said. "We all begged her to do it, so she could begin radiation treatments."

The doctors told Stephens medication and some chemotherapy might stop the spread of the cancer and extend her life by three to five years.

Stephens refused to end the pregnancy or take any drugs or radiation that might cause her to miscarry.

"I cried and pleaded with her to think about herself and the family she already had," Bass said, adding: "Then, Lori said something that was very profound.

"She looked at me and said, I don't have a future. Why not give my baby one.?"

During the months that fol-lowed, Bass said Stephens showed little sign that the cancer, was spreading, and slolwly creeping up to her brain. She hid the fact that she had about 25 different lesions all over her body where the cancer was coming to the surface," said

"She was so courageous," her aunt, Carolyn Burmond. recalls. "She never once complained the whole time she was carrying the baby."

By the first of July, the cancer had spread to Stephens's brain, and she began having seizures. Her husband took her back to University Hospital in Jackson.

Still, Stephens refused any radiation, and on July 7, she was airlifted to Ochsner Hospital in New Orleans. Doctors there made her as comfortable as possible, and she went into labor on July 20. Stephens delivered the baby naturally, and Heather weighed in at 5 pounds, 14-and-one-half ounces, although she was five weeks premature.

"It was only after the baby was born that Stephens agreed to take any kind of radiation," Bass said.

Stephens was sent home from the hospital, and soon afterwards had 10 radiation treatments, as an out-patient, over a period of about a month.

"There was a dramatic change after the baby came," Bass recalled. Lori lost half of her body weight. And, of course, her hair fell out."

Stephens had another seizure, and she went back into Oschsner Sept. 1. "She couldn't eat, and she couldn't sleep, and a few days later she went totally blind, then she went into a coma," said Bass.

Stephens died in her sleep on Sept. 7, and mourning family and friends laid her to rest a couple of days later in a cemetery near Diamondhead.

Ronnie Stephens spends as much time as he can with his new daughter. Little Heather sometimes stays with Lori's mom, Simmie Brown, in Bay St. Louis or with Stephens's mother in Chalmette.

Stephens's dad has moved here from Marianna, Fla., to help his son take care of Ronnie Jr., and Shelley.

A special account has been set up at Hancock Bank to provide food and clothing for the children, and to buy a tombstone for Stephens's grave.

If you're interested in making a donation, please make checks payable to The Lori Stephens Benefit Fund, P.O. BOX 798, Kiln, MS 39556-9998. Relatives and friends are also planning a po-boy sale to benefit the family on Saturday, Sept. Burmond said her Hope Chapter 402 of the Eastern Stars will sell po-boys from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Eastern Star Bldg, on Bouslog Street, off Highws: y 90.

1994, the number of patients rose to 27,065 "without any increase in the Center's base level of federal support."

Coastal is partially funded by a $3 million grant from the Public Health Service. Shanks said its budget for the coming year was about $7.1 million. with the remaining revenue generated by reimbursement from Medicare and Medicaid. and fees charged to patients.

"With the current trends at the national level, the Center could not realistically anticipate any increase in funding to cover the costs of these aditional 10,000 plus patients,"Shanks said. She also warned that impending changes in the Medicaid and Medicare programs could result in further reductions in the Center's resources.

"Our decision to close the Hancock County Clinic was "Facing potential closure of the entire program, our Board had to reduce costs to match our realistic income,"Sr. Milner

Shanks said the Hancock County Clinic serves only nine percent of the total number of patients served by Coastal, but the cost of operating the clinic absorbed 16 percent of Coastal's

By consolidating services in Harrison County, she said Coastal could save approximately $500,000 a year.In further efforts to reduce expenses. Shanks said Coastal's clinics will no longer deliver babies and its dental services will be drastically curtailed.

Supervisors told Shanks they have set aside $10,000 in this vear's budget for Coastal's clinic here, and District 3 Supervisor Howard Lizana asked her. "What will it take to keep our; clinic open,?"
"$500,000," Shanks said.

Shanks later told the Echo. Coastal pays $42,750 a year to rent its building, and another $6,000 a year in utilities. She said it costs about $250,000 a year to provide services of one fulltime physician and a nurse, and provide malpractice insurance and other services at the clinic, such as a pharmacy. xrays and a laboratory.

William Tate, a member of Hancock Medical Center's Board of Trustees, asked if Coastal had ever considered bringing into the Bay St. Louis clinic patients from Pass Christian and other areas of West Harrison County.

Coastal officials have said it was more cost effective to maintain three clinics in Harrison County because of the highvolume of patients.

"It seems to me the closing (of the Bay St. Louis clinic) would be a bigger hardship on the people in the westernmost part of the county, like Pearlington," said Tate. He said those residents might have to travel 80 miles roundtrip to get medical attention, whereas "people in the Pass would only have to come over the bridge." He also suggested that the Bay St. Louis clinic could be run with one doctor and one nurse at a cost of about $250,000 a year. District 1 Supervisor Robert Peterson asked Shanks and other Coastal board members if Coastal could remain open if the county provided it a rent-free facility, in addition to the $10,000 annual funding.

"We have not heard this proposal before," Shanks said. "We will be glad to entertain specific, concrete proposals."

Supervisors said they hope to have a plan to present to Shanks when they meet Sept.

In the meantime, Shanks said Coastal social workers have begun informing patients that the clinic will close Sept. 29, and they are helping them line up transportation.

Coastal had wanted the use the $10,000 in county funds to help provide transportation for patients who have to go to the clinics in Harrison County, but supervisors still haven't decided what they will do with the monies...

Shanks said Coastal currently has one van available, and a system of voucher payment may be used so patients can ride Coastal Transit or local

'Jekyll & Hyde' opens soon at Biloxi's Saenger Theatre

America's chilling new musical sensation, Jekyll & Hyde, is coming to the Saenger Theatre Oct. 3-8 as a Presentation of the 1995-96 Broadway Series at the Saenger Theatre. With a soaring score by Leslie Bricusse and Frank Wildhorn, direction by Gregory Boyd, and musical staging by Larry Fuller, Jekyll & Hyde breathes new life into Robert Lewis Stevenson's rich. dark tale of romance and the epic battle between good and Jekyll & Hyde retains the gothic flavor of Stevenson's The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, first published in 1886, but has been adapted in a contemporary style. This whirlwind odyssey — pitting man against himself — is set into motion when Dr. Henry Jekyll's medical experiment backfires, giving life to Edward Hyde, his evil alter-ego.

Jekyll & Hyde debuted at Houston's famed Alley Theatre in 1990, quickly becoming the most successful show in the theater's 47-year history. The success story continued when Liza Minelli recorded music from the score, and many of the songs were featured at major events. including the Olympics, the Miss America Pageant and the Super Bowl. Jekyll & Hyde the gothic musical thriller, a double CD issue of the show's entire score, is currently available on Atlantic Records. Jekyll & Hyde features the lyrics of Academy Awardwinner Leslie Bricusse who collaborated with Anthony Newley on the music and lyrics for the stage musicals "The Roar of the Greasepaint — The Smell of the Crowd' and 'Stop the World, I Want to Get Off,' which produced the standards What Kind of Fool Am I' and 'Who Can I Turn To.'

He also wrote the music and

Mr. Bricusse will again join creative forces with Frank Wildhorn to write new material for the upcoming Broadway musical Victor/ Victoria.

Frank Wildhorn has composed or collaborated on more than 20 gold and platinum hits, including the number one international song, 'Where Do Broken Hearts Go' recorded by Whitney Houston. Wildhorn conceived the musical version of Jekyll & Hyde when he was a history and philosophy major at the University of Southern California, but he had to put the project on hold until he established himself in the pop music

After his work on Jekyll & Hyde in 1990, he returned to Houston's Alley Theatre the following season to collaborate with Gregory Boyd and John Bettis on the music and lyrics for the world premiere of the

WEEKLY, GAMING HOROSGOPE

MONDAY, SEPT. 25-Mama mia, this looks like the beginning of a lucky week for you at Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino. I see you enjoying the delicious Italian Night Buffet from 4-10 p.m. for 10 million lire or just $4.95 American, a good investment, especially if you go downstairs afterwards and fry your luck at the slots for perhaps a very, very rich dessert. You're going to register for their Wednesday "Shop Til You Drop Giveaway" where a $5,500 shopping spree and a limo ride to your favorite mall is in your stars. Be patient. The week is young even though you may not be.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 26-A very critical day of the week for you. It is imperative that you get out to Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino and register for the mega "Shop Til You Drop" $5,500 Shopping Spree. Staying home today could perhaps even be dangerous. And why would you even want to with their delicious, allyou-can-eat Chinese Buffet from 4-10 p.m. for only $4.95.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 27-Your entire life is going to change today. Get out of the house, get down to Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino and start your $5,500 "Shop Til You Drop" Shopping Spree. I see you with the winning entry in your hand at 10:00 p.m. after being extremely upset that you didn't claim either the 9 or 9:30 p.m. $500 mini-sprees. Now, wasn't it worth it? Actually you're there earlier, taking advantage of their $4.95 Everyday All-You-Can-Eat Buffet from 4-10 p.m., and jamming to the sounds of "The Treater." Ignore this column and it looks like an expensive and annoying fender-bender with somebody testy from North Little Rock, Arkansas in the Casino Magic parking lot. On your way in.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 28-You're rich now and have been celebrating all night long, so Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino $2.99 Everyday Breakfast Buffet is definitely out. So instead you do their everyday all-youcan-eat lunch there for $3.99 and just start throwing dough around, what the heck. And if you're going to throw it around like that, you might as well do it at a place where everybody's extremely nice to you. The folks down at Bayou Caddy even know your name now.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 29-Quite a week, huh? Celebrate your good fortune with a fais-do-do at Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino featuring grammy-winning Bruce Daigreport from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. You get a strange sense of being in New Orleans at the Jazz Fest on a funky afternoon, only you're not sweating like a pig. The only thing hot is the music and the slots and you're having even more fun. You're going to wakeup Saturday to a let-down weekend, with remorse that you forgot about the actually really good all-you-can-eat Seafood Night vesterday at Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino. It was only $11.95 from 4 p.m. to 2 a.m. But it'll be there next week.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY-It's never too late, you'll feel better by October and the answer is yes.

SHOP 'TIL YOU DROP

Drawing for Shopping Sprees at 10 p.m. each Wed. Promotion begins on Wed., Sept. 6, 1995. Winner must live and shop within a 100 mile radius of Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino. Speculating: Buying cars by moonlight

To paraphrase Gen. George S. Patton, taking calculated risks and being rash are two very different things. Most investments carry some risk, but it need not be speculative risk. Many would-be investors, though, don't understand the difference between speculating and investing.

To illustrate the difference. consider this example: A man wants to buy a car. He takes the time to look at a number of cars, carefully evaluating their handling, performance and price. The man evaluates all potential risks and rewards before he buys. He is investing. Speculating, on the other hand. would be like buying a car by moonlight -you haven't looked at the merchandise carefully enough to really know what you're getting.

Clearly, investing means carefully evaluating and selecting securities or mutual funds that meet your needs. Stocks or stock mutual funds would allow you to take part in the growth of the economy.

More and more people are discovering the value of investing. The Mutual Fund Fact Book, published by the Investment Company Institute, estimates that from 1982 to 1992, the average percentage of discretionary household assets invested in mutual funds more than doubled — from 6.8 percent to an all-time high of 15.8 percent. Many investors own mutual funds because they offer professional money management, diversification and a systematic means for achieving long-term financial goals, such as securing a comfortable retirement or sending a child to college.

With such a big increase in investing, evidently more Americans are following the advice of Mark Twain, who said there are two times in people's lives when they should not speculate: when they can't afford it.

and when they can.

Home buyers look for curb appeal

While summer is traditionally a "hot" real estate sales season, low interest rates and good home values will likely attract. buyers to the housing market this fall, according to Herb Dubuisson, president with ERA Bayshore in Waveland.

To attract more buyers, home owners should consider a few simple marketing tips before listing their homes with a real estate specialist.

"Curb appeal is the primary factor affecting a buyer's first impression of a home," Dubuis-son said. "By giving a home attention, sellers can increase the value without incurring a lot of expenses.

Five important marketing tips to remember while selling a home are:

* Present a tidy exterior appearance by trimming trees and bushes, keeping the lawn mowed and planting some flowers. A major overhaul isn't necessary. Keeping the yard neat will dramatically increase curb appeal.

* Stay flexible. Allow prospects to view the home at convenient times.

* Clean storage places like closets, attic and garages.

* Create a bright, spacious atmosphere within the home by removing cluttered furniture and painting inside walls with light colors.

* Remain realistic in pricing the home. Ask a real estate specialist in the community to help determine the market value.

By following these tips, sellers are more likely to attract the right buyer quickly. Thursday, Oct. 5, 3-5 p.m., Brumfield Building, 650 Delmas Avenue, Pascagoula

At these meetings GRPC staff and the principal consultants for the study, Barr, Dunlop and Associates, will present a brief overview of the study effort and the results of the preliminary transportation system needs analysis. Those attending will be given ample time to make comments and suggestions.

The principal purpose of these meetings will be to give those persons living or doing business in the area the opportunity to be actively involved in the ongoing Mississippi Gulf Coast Area Transportation Study Update.

The primary goal of the study efort is to develop a long-range plan for the efficient movement of people and goods in the region through the year 2020, taking into consideration all available transportation modes and all identifiable transportation needs.

As the designated metropolitan planning organization for the Mississippi Gulf Coast Area, Gulf Regional Planning Commission is responsible for developing and maintaining the regional transportation plan and for coordinating transportation planning activities in the region in accordance with the requirements of the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991 and other applicable federal and state laws and regulations.

At the present time GRPC is seeking public input regarding needed improvements to streets and highways, public transit facilities and services, pedestrian and bicycle facilities and portation systems in the area.

All concerned citizens are strongly urged to attend one of the public meetings scheduled for the first week in October. Written comments may also be addressed to Ned J. Boudreaux, Executive Director, Gulf Regional Planning Commission, 1232 Pass Road, Gulfport, MS 39501-6237

COMMUNITY

Diamondhead Performing Arts Society

"Centuries of Music" will be presented by Diamondhead Performing Arts Society on Sunday, Oct. 8 at the Diamondhead Country Club. Show time will be 7:30 p.m. This unique and enlightening concert will be a musical journey through the ages composed of three segments; the Consortium Musicum, the Classical Quartet and the Seacoast Jazz Trio.

oort and nost cour vailable.

I-NOON

ack?

The Consortium, a group of talented preservationists of ancient musical art, open the performance with the sounds and sights of the Renaissance period. With instruments of wood, dance and vocals of the era and costumes befitting this time of art renewal, they will enchant.

The Classical Quartet will bridge the time gap of history from earlier centuries to the 20th Century. The Quartet will introduce music from the Baroque period with the flow of the waltz -Schubert, Strauss - and conclude with the Moon Glow Sonata part Beethoven and part of a special arrangement to usher in the modern age of music - Jazz.

The Seacoast Jazz Trio concludes the concert with the sounds of our time - of ragtime and blues, of Dark Town Strutter's Ball and Georgia on My Mind and the everloving peal of brass.

All performers are residents of the Gulf Coast area and play for various social functions throughout the area.

Tickets are $12.50 for adults and $3.50 for students. They may be purchased at Diamondhead Discount Drugs, Yellow Bird, 402 Dunbar Avenue, Bay St. Louis, or at the door on the evening of the performance.

Stennis Institute offering studies of current 'hot-button' issues

Copies of three easy-to-read reports on issues important to many state residents are available form government researchers at Mississippi State University.

Averaging about 30 pages, the studies by John C. Stennis Institute of Government staff members include a primer on o initiative and referendum, a review of the term limits initiative and a comparative study of municipal annexation.

The reports were initially developed for government poli-cy makers. As long as supplies last, free copies are available for interested members of the public, said institute director W. Martin Wiseman.

"A number of initiative proposals have been filed with the secretary of state's office and one commonly referred to as the term limits initiative' is scheduled to go before voters in November," said Wiseman. "We hope our report on this topic, as well as the others on annexation and initiative and referendum, will provide a better understanding of the intricacies of the issues."

Names for Mississippi's former U.S. senator and Mississippi State alumnus, the Stennis Institute works primarily with state and local offices to enhance the effectiveness and

Return of the white tiger

The Jackson Zoo is hosting a rare white Bengal tiger now through Oct. 29. This six-year-old female named "Silver," will be on display daily.

White Bengal tigers never fail to fascinate viewers, and they serve as strong ambassadors to the world's largest catthe tiger.

Bengal tigers, Panthera tigris tigris, are usually orange with black stripes. This ghostly white beauty, which her chocolate stripes and icy blue eyes, is neither an albino nor a different species than the orange Bengal tiger. A recessive gene produces this rare color phase.

While beautiful to look at. white is not a practical color for a tiger. Currently there are only 150 to 200 white tigers captive and wild in the world.

Sponsors of this special white tiger exhibit are Arrow 94, Capitol Cablevision, Iron Horse Grill and McDonald's (Metrocenter, Clinton Blvd. and Canton locations).

The Jackson Zoo is open daily from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. For information call 352-2580.

efficiency of government service. The institute also provides technical assistance and research for rural development and works with individuals and organizations to promote civic education and citizen involvement.

For copies of one or all three reports; write in care of the Stennis Institute of Government, Box LV, Mississippi State, MS 39762 or telephone (601) 325-3328.

-- Conversational Spanish, which is designed for beginners interested in acquiring some degree of fluency to help them in travel or work. The 7-8:30 p.m. classes will be held each Monday from Oct. 9 through Nov. 13. The cost is $50, or $45 for faculty and staff.

more information, call USM Continuing Education at (601) 266-4186.

Ole Miss greets the world

The University of Mississippi Alumni Association is now online, giving graduates and friends around the world the opportunity to keep in touch with their favorite school via their computers.

Individuals with access to the Internet can check out the Ole Miss Alumni Association's home page at the following Internet Protocol address: http://www.alum.olemiss.edu.

The alumni page contains information on the benefits of active membership, travel opportunities, alumni clubs across the nation and the alumni staff. A calendar of alumni events, a look at the current alumni magazine and a form to update mailing addresses also are included.

The link will continually be updated with new information, so virtual visitors are encouraged to check back regularly, said Herb Dewees, executive director of Alumni Affairs.

Netters also can surf over to the University's home page.

Thirty minutes of time well spent.

That's how long it takes to have a screening mammogram at Slidell Memorial Hospital's Breast Diagnostic Center. And it's thirty minutes that could save your life.

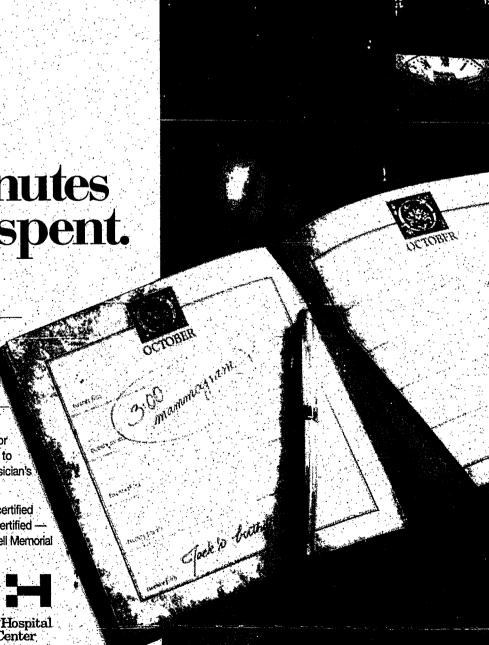

A timely offer. Take the time to schedule your screening mammogram in the month of October for only $49.

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and we're doing our part for the women of our community by offering screening mammograms during the entire month of October for $49 (regularly $69), including radiologist interpretation. We urge all women age 35 and over to practice the three-step approach to breast health: monthly breast self-examination; yearly physician's exam; and regular mammography.

Our exclusively female staff has received advanced levels of training in mammography, and are certified by the American Registry of Radiologic Technologists, and our radiologists are all board certified so you know you'll be getting the finest care. Call the Breast Diagnostic Center at Sideli Memorial Hospital, 649-8585, to schedule your appointment.

Plant's fingerprint makes positive ID

By Dr. Milo Burnham Horticulturist Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Fingerprints have been used for a long time for identification purposes. Supposedly no two people have identical fingerprints. So, once a person's fingerprints are on file, they become a permanent means of identifying that person.

This past year we've all heard and read a lot about chemical fingerprints as a method of identification. Like fingerprints, no two people, other than identical twins, have identical DNA, so it becomes a very specific marker or chemical fingerprint for that person.

Surprisingly, chemical fingerprinting is being investigated and used as a means of identifying different cultivars of plants. The September issue of the "Journal of the American Society for Horticultural Science" contains several articles on the subject.

If you are wondering why it is important to chemically identify a particular plant or group of plants, consider the issue of plant patents.

Many vegetatively propa-gated plants are patented and their propagation is controlled by the holder of the patent. A question of illegal propagation or propagation of a similar cultivar could be resolved if a chemical fingerprint of the cultivar in question existed.

There may be a situation where a grafted plant doesn't perform as expected because the wrong root stock was used in making the graft. Chemical fingerprints of all rootstocks would help resolve such questions or prevent establishing an orchard on the wrong rootstock.

Researchers at the Holden Arboretum in Kirtland, Ohio, looked at enzymes in crabapple cultivars. There are apparently close to 700 different named cultivars of crabapples which makes identification a complex

Currently, identification of crabapple cultivars and many other vegetatively propagated plants is through characteristics such as flower color; fruit size, shape and color; and mature tree form.

The Holden Arboretum researchers were able to distinguish between nearly all of the 45 crabapple varieties they studied on the basis of six enzymes extracted from bud and leaf tissue.

Three cultivar pairs had similar enzyme patterns, so the system using just six enzymes isn't 100 percent perfect. As more crabapple cultivars are studies it may be necessary to look at more than just the six enzymes.

Blueberry researchers in Georgia studied blueberry DNA as a means of distinguishing different blueberry cultivars. All 19 cultivars tested exhibited distinct and unique differences that could be used in cultivar identification.

The DNA was extracted from young leaves which means it isn't necessary to wait until fruiting to verify whether or not particular plants are a particular cultivar. The technique may be useful in identifying the parentage of hybrids.

The system of using DNA worked so well that the researchers were able to identify unmarked samples collected from the original 19 cultivars. The technique successfully proved that two names had been assigned to a single selec-tion. This cleared up the question of whether there were two very similar cultivars or just one that had somehow been given to names.

Researchers in Oregon were not nearly as successful in using DNA for identifying grape rootstocks as the Georgia researchers working with blueberries. This doesn't mean the technique isn't as good as originally thought, but does point out the need for further refinement of the technique.

This is pretty powerful stuff that gardeners don't have to worry about, but in practice it will help to ensure that when you purchase a named cultivar or grafted plant that you are getting what you paid for,

Yard care tips, tactics

The grass could be greener on your side of the fence if you heed these tips from the Monsanto experts, makers of Greensweep Ten Minute Lawn Care Products.

*Water your grass early in the day and allow it to dry off by sundown to help curb the spread of lawn fungus and

*To mow and grow a better lawn, be sure your lawn gets a half inch of water every five days during the growing season. Deep, infrequent watering growth.

*Apply a selective weed and feed product in the spring to prevent broadleaf weeds like dandelion and chicken weed from robbing your lawn of nutrients and moisture.

*To minimize stress on your lawn, adjust mower blades to a cutting height of two-and-a-half inches in the spring and raise blades to three inches in the

Smart carpet shopping:

Here's how to choose

The economy has left most of us feeling the tug on our wallets and pocketbooks. So, we're shopping more carefully and demanding more accountability for our dollars.

For homeowners looking to redecorate, home furnishings have become as important aninvestment as a new car. Carpet is no exception.

The following tips are designed to help make you a smarter carpet shopper.

After deciding which rooms you'd like to redecorate, the next step is determining how many square yards of new carpet you will need. Measure the length and width of the room.

and the width to find the total number of square feet of carpet

Divide this total by nine for the number of square yards.

How good is it?

Determining the quality of a particular carpet style is really very easy. Simply press down on the carpet pile with one finger and see how easy or difficult it is to penetrate the carpet

The harder it is to penetrate the backing, the better the carpet's quality.

Denser carpets provide longer wear and better crush resistance. Since soil and stains remain mostly on the surface, these styles are also usually easier to clean and maintain.

Another way to determine value is to check the quality to the yarn. Generally, the tighter the yarn is twisted, the better the wear and performance.

Look closely at the cut ends of the individual carpet fibers. These should be neat and well defined and should not fray or "blossom" at the ends.

Carpet padding (the cushion that lays underneath the carpet) and installation often are included in the overall price.

Quality padding not only will ad to the life of your carpet, it also helps insulate cold floors.

Next, multiply the length Another important consideration is if the carpet features a recognized treatment, such as needed to cover the floor. Basic kinds of lighting fixtures, lighting ideas

A special aura can be created in your home, room by room, with effective lighting. The right lighting opens your home to its full potential.

You can spend thousands of dollars on beautiful furnishings, carpeting and accessories but if the lighting isn't good, all your beautiful things won't look their best, after dark.

Basic Kinds of Lighting
There are three basic kinds of lighting that work together to illuminate your home: general (ambient) task and accent. A good lighting plan combines them to light a room or area according to its function and with style.

General or ambient lighting is light to see by. It should be at a comfortable level of brightness, not hot and glaring, and not so dim there is danger of bumping into the furniture.

Task lighting should be directed to the work or activity you are engaged in. It should be free of glare from the fixture itself or from reflections off a work surface. There should be no shadows between you and the task at hand. The light should be bright enough to prevent evestrain.

Accent lighting adds drama and permits the homeowner to control the atmosphere in a room. As guests enter the living room, it calls immediate attention to the painting in the space above the fireplace, to sculptures or wall hangings and, outside, to the beautiful garden plantings or trees that otherwise disappear from sight at night.

Basic Fixtures

There are choices to please everyone from elegant crystal chandeliers to contemporary recessed lighting, where the source of the light is not meant to be seen at all.

There are the traditional ceiling fixtures, installed at or close to the ceiling, which usually provide general lighting. They are practical in heavily trafficked areas; entrances and hallways, bedrooms, kitchens and baths, laundry and family rooms. There are ceiling fixtures accommodating both incandescent and fluorescent light sources.

Wall-mounted fixtures are often designed to match a candelier in a dining room and are used in bedrooms, hallways or the living room. In the bathroom, they serve well as task lighting on each side of a small mirror.

Pendants are chandelier-like fixtures, but smaller and generally without arms.

Then, there is track lighting, which is extremely flexible. It can fill a room with general lighting, provide dramatic accent and practical task lighting, all at the same time.

Lighting Ideas

There is a renaissance in lighting today with new high-tech fixtures, controls activated not only by time settings but by sound and motion, and lighting being used in innovative ways. Ask about them when you visit a lighting showroom. A few practical ideas for home lighting follows:

Kitchen

At the sink and range, install two recessed downlights spread 15" to 18" apart and use 75-watt reflector flood bulbs or compact fluorescent totaling 60-watts, either recessed, surface-mounted or behind a faceboard. Living Room

Hang a pendant fixture, suspended from the ceiling over a table alongside a chair.

It will provide task light and save space on the top of the table. The bottom of the shade should be at eye level when a person is seated—about 40" to 42" above the floor.

Bedroom

For reading in bed, mount a fluorescent wall bracket above the head of the bed, with the lower edge 30" above the

A single bed requires a fixture 36" long, a double bed a 48" long fixture, or mount track lighting 30" above the mattress, using 20- to 50-watt reflector mattress.

To light large mirrors (36" or more), mount an incandescent fixture, at least 22" wide, along the top with three or four 60-watt bulbs, or use strip lights with 15- to 25-watt, globe-shaped bulbs.

Dining Room

Always supplement the light from a chandelier with additional fixtures. Consider a ring of four recessed downlights around the outer edge of the table. They will add sparkle to tableware.

Flank a buffet with a pair of wall sconces on either side, mounted 60" above the floor, using tungstenhalogen as the light source. (Halogen is a form of incandescent light providing a clear, white light that will not darken with age as other light sources do).

Under Shelves

Install lights in a china cabinet or bookcase to highlight collectibles. Easy-to-mount units are available.

Wash A Wall

To wash a wall with light using track fixtures, mount the unit 2" to 3" from the wall if the ceiling is up to 9' high, and 3' to 4' from the wall if the ceiling is 9' to 11' high. Space the fixtures the same distance apart as the track is from the wall. This is an excellent way to light an art collection in an otherwise dull hallway.

Outdoors For Safety

To light steps and paths, install low path lights, post lanterns or lights attached to the house. Illuminate side and rear entries as well as front doors and walls with easy access windows, to discourage prowlers and thieves.

Enjoy the comfort of your gas furnace of all winter long. Let us check and clean your system. 395

Countdown for cold weather

Fall is the perfect time to start preparing your home for the cold winter months ahead.

Many homeowners use this time to make sure their homes are as safe, comfortable and energy-efficient as they can be. Seasonal maintenance is important in protecting the life of a dwelling, and there are certain projects that should not be overlooked.

• Seal your home against drafts by caulking and weatherstripping around doors and windows.

Remove screens and install storm windows and doors.

 Have your furnace professionally inspected and serviced before the start of each heating season.

• Check your home's insulation levels to make sure they meet recently upgraded R-Value recommendations by the Department of Energy.

If your attic or crawl space needs insulation, add a layer of quality insulation.

Replace your furnace filter and make sure you clean or replace it periodically during winter months.

 Wrap your water pipes and ducts in any exposed areas such as unheated crawl spaces.

Remember, prevention is the best cure. Nature can wreak havoc on a home, and a cold and drafty house can cost you plenty in fuel bills. Take the time now to avoid any problems this winter.

Security Steps Help Protect Family, Home From Crime

(NAPS)—Homes are especially vulnerable to break-ins when their owners are away. In fact, the United States Justice Department reports that 25 percent of burglaries occur when owners are engaged in leisure activity away from home

Fortunately, most Americans are taking action to protect their homes from crime, according to a new national survey conducted by Brink's Home Security on crime preparedness. The survey found that since 1991 nearly 99 percent of homeowners have taken steps to help prevent being crime victims. Most have purchased exterior home lighting (59 percent) as well as new home and door window locks (56 percent).

Here are some tips from the experts at Brink's Home Security to help keep, your property safe while you're away:

Make sure the streets around your home are well lit. While it is always as good idea to install your own exterior lighting, this may have little impact on a dimly lit street. If you live in a poorly lit neighborhood, ask authorities to install street lights or replace existing bulbs with those of higher wattage.

Use timers on indoor and outdoor lighting fixtures when you're away.

Install security or break-resistant glass in windows. These often prevent burglars from breaking or unlocking windows.

Use natural barriers, such as shrubs with prickly thorns or leaves, to deter break-ins, Check with a local nursery to find out which plants fit. the bill and grow well in your area.

Permanently mark your valuables with a personal identification number. Call your local police to inquire about Operation I.D., a national program that involves inscribing a personal number (driver's license is best) on your Notify police when you will be away on vacation and let them know if you have a security system. That way, police have notice that you are out of townshould your system be activated.

Many local departments provide residential security checks. At a minimum. let your friends in the neighborhood know when you will leave and when you will return.

Park in the driveway. When you are away from home, park another car or ask a neighbor to park in your driveway. This gives the appearance someone is home.

Install a home security system.

Good laundry design saves time and energy

Now more than ever, busy homeowners juggle work, fami-ly and leisure in an effort to maintain a balanced and satisfying lifestyle. For them, time saved on everyday tasks means time more happily spent elsewhere.

So when homeowners nationwide recently took time to design efficient home laundry areas, they not only made life easier for themselves but also were recognized for doing so by Maytag Company and Woman's Day Kitchens and Baths in Good Laundry Design Contest.

If you're as busy as the contest entrants, you too may benefit from putting theirs and other ingenious ideas to use. Consider the following:

Keep storage close to laundry equipment. A retired couple built in a two-tiered, turnaround shelf near the washer and dryer. The shelf holds laundry ready to be washed or near laundry equipment. A couple with two active children installed a drip-drying closet next to the sink and laundry equipment by using a showerfloor base with a drain and ceramic tile walls. They also installed a low faucet and clothing rod.

Double up on space with stacked laundry equipment. A single mother living in an older home installed a stacked washer/dryer in a compact closet near the garden and central kitchen island. On the inside closet door a fold-down ironing board saves even more precious space.

Locate laundry equipment adjacent to existing plumbing. When the most convenient plumbing hook-up seems awkward, consider locating appliances behind louvered cabinets and folding doors for easy concealment when not in

Great Ways To Reduce Energy Loss At Home

You can see wasted food or paper, but you can't see wasted energy; it can go to waste quietly and invisibly. There's no telltale mess left behind—only a few numbers on your utility or fuel bill that could have been lower.

Following are a few steps that you can take to help you save energy at home.

- Weatherstrip, Seal cracks around doors and windows to stop air leakage.
- Insulate. One of the most important single steps you can take! In addition to using windows with insulating glass and thermal breaks in their frames, be sure you have at least four inches of fiberglass insulation in your walls and six inches in your ceiling.
- Keep doors shut as much as possible.
- Keep drapes closed on sunny, windows in summer: on shaded windows and at night in winter.
- · Keep drapes open on sunny windows in winter.
- Keep your thermostat at 68degrees in winter (even lower at night). For each degree below 72degrees you ser your thermostat, you save 3 percent on your heatingbill. Consider using a "clock type" thermostat that automatically lowers the temperature at night. Use an electric blanker instead of heating the whole house!
- Keep heating and cooling unit filters clean.
- Don't heat or cool unused rooms.
 Close them off.
- Choose window air-conditioning units with "Energy Efficiency Ratios" (EER) of 8 or better.
 EER is the Btu rating divided by the wattage. Example: A 12,000 Btu unit that uses 1,500 watts would have an EER of 8.0.
- Cut appliance use in summer as much as possible. Be sure clothes dryers are vented to the outside. Always turn off appliances and lights when not in use.

- Keep your aftic vented. Attics can reach very hot temperatures in summer. Consider installing an attic vent fan to flush the hot air.
- Fix leaking hot water faucets.
 One drop per second leaking from a faucet wastes 650 gallons of water a year—as well as the energy used to heat it.
- Keep refrigerator and freezer defrosted. Ice build-up means more work. But remember that self-defrosting units use-up to 50 percent more energy than those requiring manual defrosting.
- Use your oven more for cooking.
 It stores heat so it uses less energy than surface "burners." Avoid "oven peeping" while cooking; though.
- Use fluorescent lights where possible. They produce about four times as much light for the same amount of electricity as incandescent bulbs.

When leaves fall, so do mower prices

The days are shorter, and so is the grass — the one good part about summer's passing. Soon, it won't need to be cut anymore.

And next year, many a lawnmower owner now vows, it will be off to the store to replace old (shabby) faithful with one of those new, super high-tech machines. Maybe even a mulching mower.

A nice thought to look forward to, but a costly delay.

Fall, when grass cutting is about to end, is the ideal time to go out and buy that new lawnmower.

Why? Mowers don't sell in the cold season at all. Unless a dealer wants to carry an inventory of mowers all winter long, he's got to find a way to move them. So what does he do? In a word: discount.

So the best deals on lawnmowers are right now.

What to look for Before shopping, however, it's worth thinking about your

Most people can remember trying to start their first lawn mower. Not too many years ago, that meant yanking repeatedly on a starter cord and swearing until that little engine turned over. Ask for a mower guaranteed to start within two pulls.

Don't forget to consider width, which determines how wide a swath of grass is mowed down with every pass.

Widths range from 17 to 22 inches. Homeowners with congested yards (flower beds and. other obstacles) may prefer one of the narrower widths for easy maneuvering.

Versatility

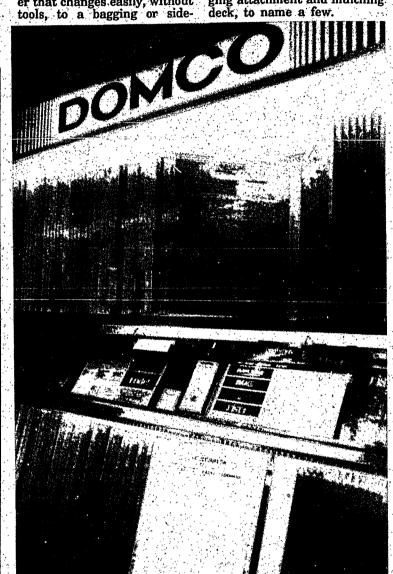

Today's mowers perform a variety of tasks. First and foremost, with more and more landfills not accepting yard waste, your mower should mulch

Mulching mowers cut grass finely, forcing clippings back into the yard to act as fertilizer.

However, also look for a mower that changes easily, without discharge mower for those days when the grass is too long to mulch.

Riding mowers
Because of the higher cost, dealers especially do not like to hold onto riding mowers. When looking at riding mowers (garden and yard tractors) make sure they can accept many attachments such a blade, bagging attachment and mulching deck, to name a few.

Remember that every room has a focal point. In the living room, it may be the fireplace. In another, visitors might be drawn to the window. Always identify the strong visual ele-ments in a room and be sure to complement them-with mirrors or matching or contrasting colors, for example—rather than crowd them or detract from their effects.

Often minor, inexpensive decorations can revitalize a room you thought needed a major overhaul. Here are some inexpensive, yet versatile decorating elements to consider:

Lighting

Not all light bulbs need to be soft white, which, contrary to their name are rather harsh. Yellow or golden light is not as blinding and uses less wattage. Golden light even makes a nice substitute for candlelight since it provides a similar warm glow,

Rooms that are meant for relaxation rather than work should not have overhead or fluorescent lighting. Both tire the eyes. Track lights are a nice addition to any room, especially the living room, where the lights can be pointed in different directions to illuminate artwork, photographs, or a bouquet of fresh flowers,

Borders and trompe l'oeil Decorative borders that run along the top of the walls can be pasted on in a short time. They come in a variety of motifs such as Ionic columns, floral patterns and trompe l'oeil, and are in inexpensive way to add character to a room.

Fabrics, glass, and mirrors

If all new furniture is out of. the question financially, recovering or simply covering tables and armchairs with a fabric that matches carpeting and drapes might to the trick.

Wooden tables become elegant when covered with a fitted piece of glass. Glass shelves are a light, airy, unobtrusive addition. And, why not get more use out of your crystal bowls by filling each with potpourri and leaving them permanently throughout the house?

If one room or your entire apartment is just too small or too dark, mirrored tiles can be a solution. They come in a variety of sizes and colors and can coveras much or as little wall space as desired. Or, to make a room seem double its actual size. place a standing mirror in a corner from floor to ceiling.

Stop Wood Stoves From Smoking

(NAPS)—The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) estimates that if American households used certifiedonly wood stoves, particulate emissions would decrease by about 436,000 tons each year. Americans would use 700,000 fewer cords of wood a year as well.

Did you also know that if you have a wood stove that's more than five years old, chances are you're one of the culprits contributing to air pollution problems?

What can you do as an environmentally conscious consumer? Happily, a new generation of wood and pellet stoves and fireplace inserts has been created to burn cleaner and more efficiently: today's technology enables wood stoves and fireplace inserts to extract more heat using less fuel.

This dramatically reduces particulate matter in wood smoke from 50-plus grams per hour to 7.5 grams or less per hour. The Quadra-Fire line of wood and pellet burning appliances, manufactured by Aladdin Steel Products, Inc. in Colville, Washington, has been rated by the EPA as the cleanest burning stove line in the United States. Quadra-Fire emits only an average of 2.1 grams per hour.

It's also important to note that most EPA-certified wood stoves are exempt from burn restrictions in the United States. The fact is: a new wood stove today could be the answer to cleaner air

Suggestions for achieving a decorator look at home

When papering your walls, keep these helpful tips in mind.

When hanging a large scale. pattern in a room that has a fireplace, center the first strip over the fireplace and hang to the right. Then go back and hang to the left. If you're going around the whole room, plan to end in an inconspicuous corner.

Never "wrap" a whole strip around inside corners, without cutting and realigning. It may look okay at first, but in a few weeks, wrinkles and creases might appear.

When using no-match, plain textured wallcoverings, reverse every other strip top to bottom for uniform color.

Never use a seam roller on flocked wallcoverings. Gently tap the seams with the edge of a smoothing brush.

Check the run numbers on vour rolls before you start to make sure they're the same, as color may vary slightly from run

If you're not going to paper into the inside of an arch or frameless window or door, trim the wallcovering with your razor 1/4" from the outside edge. This will prevent fraying or pulling from the outside edge.

Ceilings, like walls, are not always "true." So plan to end the ceiling wallcovering on the less critical side of the room, like above the entrance.

When using the same pattern on the ceiling and walls, it can only be matched one way, so choose the direction most frequently looked at.

To match the pattern, trim the ceiling wallcovering so there's a 1/4" overlap on the sidewall. Match the first sidewall strip at the ceiling line, overlapping 2" as usual. Smoothe the strip down. To trim the overlap, score it with a pencil at the joint. Pull the wallcovering back and cut on the scored line with scissors. Smooth it back down. It's matched!

Where vinyl wallcoverings overlap in corners, at ceilings, etc., you'll probably need to use. a vinyl to vinyl adhesive to make them stick together. Ask your dealer.

Kitchen Cleanup Can Be A Challenge

(NAPS)-The kitchen is the most often used room of most homes, and keeping it clean and in working condition can be a challenge. Problems include clogged or slow drains, grease buildup and excessive or unwanted moisture.

But homeowners can take certain easy steps to make the job more manageable. according to Lisa Cortner, executive director of The HomeCare Council, the consumer education arm of Enforcer Products, Inc. The HomeCare Council recommends the following tips:

- · Clean disposals. Every month. flush the garbage disposal with two cups of hot water, one-half cup of baking soda and one cup of ice. Always flush the disposal with cold water after each use and grind small amounts of garbage at a time.
- Clear clogged drains. First use boiling water, then a plunger, then check in hardware stores and home centers for a commercial drain opener that will not harm disposals or plumbing, such as Enforcer's Kitchen Drain Opener. Once open, use a buildup remover like Liquid

- Drain Care Build-Up Remover with biological enzymes to keep
- plumbing lines clear. Check for moisture. Check under sinks and dishwashers and hehind refrigerators for leaking pipes and appliances. Look for weak caulking between the sinks, countertops and wall joints. Caulking is a simple and inexpensive method of moisture-proofing that can save you hundreds of dollars in later repairs.
- Remove greave buildup. Check your stove and range ventilator hood for grease buildup. Use Enforcer's All Purpose Cleaner to clean light bulbs covered with grease. Inspect the hood's outside vent for an accumulation of grease; if you find a buildup, carefully clean the ducts to avoid the

Protecting Environment Saves Trees, Energy

(NAPS)—A great many Americans are surprised when they learn that saving trees also helps to save energy: Consider this:

Using treated wood instead of alternatives such as steel, concrete glass or plastic saves as much as 32 million barrels of petroleum each year. The University of Washington's Center for International Trade in Forest Products estimates that for each one billion manufactured substitutes, annual energy consumption increases by about 720 million gallons of oil and carbon emissions increase by 7.5 million tons.

These are just some of the reasons many experts feel that pressure-treated wood is important, not only to the environment but to energy conservation. Wolmanized wood, for example, is made from fast-growing and other structures to resist termite and rot damage for decades. The structures bring people and the environment together while preserving nature and conserving energy. When they last longer it also means fewer trees will have to be used for timber. Which also helps to preserve our forests.

Extend the life of your carpet with maintenance

Whatever type of carpet you have. it's wise to vacuum regularly and clean up spills promptly. Periodic professional cleanings will also prolong the beauty of your investment. This will remove tiny particles of damaging grit and soil that even vacuuming won't remove. Here are some things you can do to maintain your carpet's appearnace in between professional cleanings:

Treat accidental spills promptly, removing as much of the material as possible.

* Blot the area with paper towels. Start from the outer edge of the stain and move towards the center. Don't scrub.

Wet the area with cold water, but do not over wet as this may saturate the carpet backing

Blot up excess water gain with paper towels. Don't use a brush or sponge.

* If the stain remains, apply a mild solution of non-bleach laundry detergent (1 tablespoon detergent in 1 quart of cold water) to the stained area. Rub it deeply into the carpet.

Rinse the area repeatedly with cold water, blotting thoroughly with paper towels, until all detergent and water is removed from the carpet.

* Place more clean paper towels over the stained area and let them remain overnight.

Once the area has dried completely, vacuum the area and brush the pile to restore the carpet texture

Some foods, such as herbal teas and mustard, contain strong natural dyes. These stains should be removed by a professional carpet cleaner.

Existing home furnishings can create striking decor

You don't have to spend thousands of dollars to create a beautiful, striking home interior.

"Creating an attractive, inviting room has less to do with what you have than how you use it.

Here are several tips which you can use to create a beautiful home interior:

Start with function. How do you want to use the room? Will you work, eat, read, watch TV? Look at your present furnish-ings and decide what you'll have to add or eliminate to meet your

Create a scale drawing on graph paper of your floor plan and cut out scale drawings of your furniture to experiment with furniture arrangements. Include doorways (and door swings), windows, fireplaces, stairways, bay windows, etc.

Next, find a focal point It should provide the dramatic and magnetic element that catches the eye and draws you into a room.

A fireplace, built-in bookcase or beautiful window are obvious focal points.

Otherwise, use a large, bold piece of furniture or painting, or even several small things such as an antique bench and a basket of dried flowers.

Experiment with your furniture templates and floor plan.

* Avoid creating a lineup of furniture around the room. Instead, pull pieces away from the walls into welcome, closeknit groupings.

* Make sure there's a handy resting place for drinks or books. near every seating place.

* Combine furnishings of different heights and "hefts" for texture.

* Make the most of lights near chairs and sofas, on desks, beside the bed. Place lights behind large plants to open up dark spaces. Dramatize a piece of artwork by lighting it.

Break up a big room into two or more groupings for coziness and better function,

While small-scaled furnishings can help you make the most of a small room, try one large piece such as a vintage armoire for a feeling of grandeur.

Rather than emphasize a long, narrow area by lining the walls with furniture, place major furnishings crosswise to break the skinny room into a friendlier area. Span the end wall with something wide, such as oversize post or a group of bookcases.

Raise a low ceiling with floorto-ceiling window treatments and tall furniture pieces, lower a ceiling with a colorful area rug and low-level lighting, and hang artwork so that it's at eye level when you're seated.

Use furniture to subdivide a space and create a room within a room. For example, if your front door opens directly into your living room, create an entrance by positioning a bookcase or sofa perpendicular to the front door.

Borders

Add style on a shoestring budget

Even with a limited budget, a little imagination combined with a sense of style can make a little decorating go a long way.

The use of wallcovering borders is a good example. They are inexpensive, yet they can perform miracles in transforming an ordinary room into a fashionable one

Available in a range of patterns, designs and colors, and in widths ranging from two to 20 inches, borders are easy to apply to plain walls to give a room a decorative accent. Or, they can be combined with coordinated wallcoverings for added detail and visual interest.

Applied at chair rail height, for example, they can be used to separate one wallcovering pattern from another.

Borders can also be used to accent doors or windows. A border near the ceiling featuring a trompe l'oeil pattern will add architectural interest to a plain pasted and trimmed. All you need to do is dip them in water and smooth them onto the wall. Be sure the walls are clean and dry and that all picture hooks are removed and any cracks or holes filled and sanded.

Borders are designed for years of sturdy service. Yet accidents do happen on occasion. Should an edge work loose or a small tear appear, apply paste to the wall as well as the back of the loose or torn piece of border. Press it in place, roll is smooth with a seam roller and wipe off any excess paste.

In the case of nicks or small holes, paste a larger piece of border over the damaged spot. Be sure to match the pattern exactly. Let the patch set for an hour. Then, use a razor knife to cut through both layers. Clear the area and repaste the top piece. Wait 15 minutes before rolling the fitted edges smooth.

Like other wallcoverings, borders are available in paint and wallpaper stores, specialty shops and decorating and home centers.

Insulation

One of the misconceptions many people have is that weather stripping, caulking and putting plastic on windows is an adequate substitute for insulation. Even though those measures are beneficial, insulation is still the basis of a good energy savings plan. If your house isn't properly insulated, it will cost you more in the long run to leave it as is than to insulate it.

There are a variety of insulation methods available to the consumer. Those methods include:

Loose Fill-Comes in large bags and is poured between attic joists. Used primarily in attic floors.

- Blankets and Bats-Bats come in short lengths and blankets come in long rolls. This type of insulation. is easy to install and offers options such as vapor barriers and backed insulation. Note: If using vapor barriers, the barrier should always face the heated area.
- Rigid-This hardened foam or polystyrene is easy to cut and shape, but it can also be flammable. It is recommended that gypsumwallboard accompany rigid insulation installation.
- Blown In-Used primarily on walls that are already finished. A hole is cut in the wall, the insulation is blown in and the hole resealed. There are two kinds of blown-in insulation: foam, which fills all crevices and then dries; and loose cellulose or mineral wool, which may settle and leave gaps in your coverage.
- Pipe insulation—If any parts of your plumbing system are exposed. to freezing temperatures, they should be wrapped in pipe insulation or protected with electric heat tape. Remember to insulate hot waterpipes as well to prevent heat loss.

Choose insulation based on the Rfactor, which is the number assigned to the insulating qualities of the material. The higher the number, the more 5091303M.DOC to ensure that there is nothing toxic or harmful in the insulation you install.

Weather stripping

No matter what type of weather stripping you use-foam, rubber, felt, etc.-it is important that you install it correctly. To maintain the seal and ensure a snug fit, weather stripping should fit the seal well, but not be too tight.

Caulking

Caulking is another method used to seal up leaks. As with insulation, there are a variety of types to choose from:

- Oil-based—Inexpensive, can't paint over easily.

 Latex-based—Dries fast, remains
- flexible, easily painted. Butlyrubber—Lasts longer, unusually
- flexible, expensive. Polysulfide-Long lasting, adheres well to paint.
- Silicone-Most expensive, longest lasting, comes clear or pre-colored, not easily painted.

Before picking a type of caulk, insulation or weather stripping, evaluate your needs and make the choice that will benefit you the most both in your pocketbook and utility bill.

Draperies With A Difference: What Fashionable Windows Will Be Wearing

(NAPS)—Window decorating horizons are expanding once again. There's an exciting new option for those who prize the look of fine custom draperies.

You can now achieve the same, drapery look without the unwieldy bulk and installation hassles. VignetteTM window shadings offers the softness of the finest draperies with the easy operation of a shade.

Created by Hunter Douglas Window Fashions; Vignette features gently contoured fabric folds, affixed to a rear knit panel, that overlap one another like billowy waves. What's more, it is raised and lowered with the action of a single cord loop. When fully raised, it disappears into a sleek curved headrail.

When lowered, the shading gives privacy and protects against nearly all of the sun's harmful ultra-violet rays, but still allows for the soft glow of daylight. Vignette also helps insulate against summer heat and winter cold.

"Vignette is one-stop shopping with its soft fullness, flexibility and light control," says prominent New York designer Michael Foster. "Its simple lines and clean look can be formal or casual, traditional or contemporary."

There are so many options in fabric, color and fold size that Vignette complements virtually any custom decor. You can also buy the fabric by the yard to make a coordinating swag, drapery or valance and to match your shadings with other furnishings.

Fabric Types: The shading is available in two fabric types—a satin weave for a smooth, reflective finish and a lightly textured basket weave for a more casual look.

Colors: From the bright white "Lily" to the subtle "Blue Phlox," there are 15 neutral and light-toned colors in all.

Fold Sizes: There are three fabric fold sizes and each achieves a different look. The 2 1/2-inch and 3-inch folds create distinctive lines, and the dramatic 4-inch fold size—perfect for larger windows—suggests the fullness of draperies. The tailored 2 1/2-inch folds are suited for even the most high-tech kitchen, while the generous 4-inch folds might adorn a beautiful bedroom window.

The polyester fabric has been specially woven to hold its shape and style indefinitely and is anti-static as well as dust and stain resistant.

Vignette is easy to maintain with light feather dusting or vacuuming. Should your shadings become soiled, they may be ultrasonically cleaned.

Vignette shadings are backed by a lifetime limited warranty. To find a retailer near you, call "Vignette Answers" at I-800-HD-SHADE.

Get The Lead Out

(NAPS)—Lead is one of the most common, if not most well-known drinking water contaminants. Its presence is national in scope and of concern to people of all ages.

Recently the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency set a new action level of 15 ppb (parts per billion) as the legally acceptable limit for lead in water. That means that if test results of representative homes served by a municipal water supply show lead levels higher than the 15 ppb limit, the municipality must take action to achieve the legal level. Actions include adding chemicals to the water to reduce its corrosivity and, if after three years of treatment an acceptable level is not reached, replacing lead pipe service lines.

"If you suspect lead is present in your home's water supply, have your water tested by a state-certified laboratory," recommends Steve Lesselyoung, director of product development and technical service for Culligan International. "However, if lead is currently present at threatening levels in your drinking water, several immediate precautions can be taken to minimize your exposure," he says.

Check Your Home's Plumbing System

The presence of lead in drinking water is usually due to older lead pipes and solder in both municipal service lines and home plumbing. The municipality is responsible for rectifying any contamination coming from the service lines; however, it is up to the individual homeowner to check their plumbing for sources of lead,

Now banned, lead pipes were commonly used in homes built before 1930 and lead solder was often used to solder pipes together in homes built before 1986.

Flush Your Plumbing System

Water that has sat in pipes containing lead or lead solder for more than six hours is more likely to contain lead. Running water for at least 60 seconds before using for consumption or cooking can significantly reduce lead levels.

Stay Cool

Use cold water for consumption and cooking, as hot water has an increased tendency to leach lead from pipes.

If, after taking these steps, your water's lead level is still unacceptable, there are several other options, including purchasing bottled water and investing in one of several water treatment systems.

"Bottled water is a practical and affordable alternative," says. Lesselyoung, adding, "It also offers an immediate solution, But for consumers desiring a more permanent solution, a water treatment system may be the best bet.

"We recommend one of two technologies to help reduce lead levels: reverse osmosis systems or specially designed lead-reduction filters," says Lesselyoung.

"Reverse osmosis is one of the most effective drinking water treatment technologies available. It uses high pressure to slowly force water through a membrane that filters out many contaminants, including lead," he explains adding, "Other filters can be effective at reducing lead as well; just make sure the product you buy actually has the capability to reduce lead. Many filters boast broad filtration performance, but may not treat lead specifically."

Consumers in need of additional information about lead contamination treatments and testing can call the foll-free Culligan WaterWatch Information Bureau at 1-800-CULLIGAN

Finding The Perfect Garage Door For You

(NAPS)—Your garage doors deserve extra attention when you build or remodel your home. They can contribute as much as 40 percent to its overall appearance.

The range of garage door options has grown substantially in the past few years, with new designs, new materials and new technology. That means more choices for you.

One of the most significant decisions homeowners make is the choice of construction materials. Generally speaking, the choices are steel and wood.

Wood has been the traditional choice for millions of homes over the years. But for most homeowners, today's state-of-the-art steel garage doors offer many advantages that are hard to beat.

APPEARANCE. Some homeowners still prefer the look of genuine wood garage doors. But today's steel doors offer the widest selection of panel styles, pre-painted colors, windows and window design options to accent and enhance any home's exterior.

MAINTENANCE. Modern steel doors are available pre-painted with permanent, durable, rust-inhibitive paints to match or coordinate with exterior house colors.

INSULATION. Steel doors are available with insulation in a variety of thicknesses, bonded to exterior and interior steel skins for rigidity, durability, noise reduction, energy efficiency and comfort. Wood doors generally are sold without added insulation.

DURABILITY. Steel garage doors are built to last. Wood doors require periodic preventive maintenance to avoid rot and deterioration.

ECONOMY. Because steel doors last longer, with less maintenance, they offer the lowest cost over the life of the door. And insulated steel doors can increase a home's energy efficiency.

For most homeowners, steel garage doors offer the best solutions to their particular needs. For your home, consider all variables, including aesthetics, the climate where you live. and how you expect to use your garage.

For more information on garage doors and on choosing, buying and installing them call 1-800-2CLO-PAY and ask for your copy of a helpful brochure called A Guide To Garage Doors. It's free from Clopay Building Products Company, Cincinnati.
